

Ex-CIA Aide Suicide

A former Central Intelligence Agency employee committed suicide in Daly City yesterday by firing a rifle bullet into his head.

San Mateo County Deputy Coroner Robert Cole said James A. Sullivan, 32, who was once a technical editor for the CIA, sat down in a bedroom easy chair and fired the 30.06 caliber slug into his forehead.

Sullivan had been under psychiatric care.

His body was found by his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bacchini, with whom he lived at 135 Skyline Dr., Daly City.

A note he apparently planned to leave outside the room was found on a radio beside the body. It said simply: "Don't come in. Call the police."

Ex-CIA Man Kills Himself In Daly City

James A. Sullivan, 32, shot himself to death with a deer rifle in the bedroom of his parents' home at 135 Skyline drive, Daly City, yesterday afternoon.

His body was found by his stepfather and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bacchini, who told Deputy Coroner Robert Cole that Sullivan had been under psychiatric care following a recent tour of duty with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Sullivan left a note which he apparently intended to post outside the door, but left it instead on a table in the room. It said: "Don't come in. Call police."
